

Friday 6th February 2015

Rainforest information Texts

English - Writing my Information Page (Non-Fiction) Rainforest Information Pages
I'M A LEARNING HERO	POWER SCALE
 I can use brackets to include extra information about a noun. In the trees live the primates (animals with flexible arms, legs and feet).	0 1 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 I can write three sentences about the same thing.	0 1 2 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 I can use both verb and adverb starts in my writing.	0 1 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 I can take responsibility for reading my work back to check it makes sense.	0 1 2 3 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Responsibility	0 1 2 3 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Introduction

Climate

Average

Rainforests are damp, dense, humid places and because of the perfect ^{SP} climate and ^{SP} average of 50% of the animals the world live there. In this, amazing environment, most species live in the three layers (canopy, emergent layer, understory). Did you know that it is either hot and sunny or rainy and cold 365 (366) days a year?

Wild Western Tarsier

Cute Tarsiers look like teddy bears in sunglasses, but they are not cuddly! Did you know when attacked by a predator the Western Tarsier widens its eyes and giveth its teeth? Fascinatingly, Western Tarsiers are insectivores (only eat insects) although are commonly known to eat small creatures such as bats and snakes.

Today I managed to get my verb in